The Love Department

By Trevor, William.

Penguin. 1 Paperback(s), 2014. soft. Book Condition: New. Advice columnist Lady Dolores is not having it, in this "engaging, amusing, unsettling, almost dream-like" novel from 1966, and she calls on Edward Blakeston-Smith to help the married women of Wimbledon resist the beguiling seductions of a persistent lothario. "There's this person called Septimus Tuam who is a scourge and a disease. He lives in a room in Putney and takes a 93 bus up to the heights and off he goes, peddling his love. It's a scandal of our times. I want you to put a stop to him, Mr. Blakestone-Smith." And though at first Edward knows nothing of love, he is about to discover so much more than he ever wanted to learn. A three-time winner of the Whitbread Award and four-time winner of the O. Henry Prize, as well as a four-time finalist for the Man Booker Prize and the winner of several lifetime achievement awards, William Trevor is celebrated as a novelist, playwright, and master of the short story, "one of the elder statesman of the Irish literary world" (Guardian, London). 266.
